I understand UBER challenges the status quo in transportation services, but needed change never happens without some tension. Our country was built on the revolution for rights and opportunities that improve the quality of life for many citizens.

The shared ride concept is an innovation that is long overdue to help improve all aspects of commuter, business and tourist transportation needs. Please continue to work with UBER to resolve any and all policy / regulatory issues.

I travel all over country every week for business and use the UBER ride share in combination with better quality taxi services. As taxi services improve, I will continue to use both. Without the competition of shared rides (with privacy and security safeguards), taxi service companies are less motivated to improve their services.

Please open access to UBER and continue to negotiate reasonable agreements in South Carolina.

Respectively,

The taxi situation in Charleston was absolutely horrible. With Uber it now makes getting a cab ride home a viable option. Allow them back on the road so someone is not forced to try to drive home after being told a cab wouldn't be available for an hour or more.

Dear PSC,

As an avid Uber user for over 2 years (I live in NYC, but am from Columbia, SC and travel back frequently to visit family), I am writing you today to strongly reconsider the decision to ban Uber in SC.

As someone who works for a technology company, I understand the implications new technology can have on the industry, which are sometimes hard at first. Uber is a technology company that is doing great things while always keeping the customer and society in the forefront of their decisions. We shouldn't fight this change, but adapt to it and learn from it. Think about why Uber is loved so much by its customers and the value it is creating above and beyond the traditional taxi cab model?

During my last week long trip to SC over the holidays, I personally would not have taken cabs, as Uber differentiates itself through strong customer service, a clean environment, convenience and price.

There are few companies I would take the time to write an email about, but Uber is one of them.

Please keep Uber in SC.

Very Respectfully,
Roe Morris
